3 Hi This is Tracey reporting from Fort Augustus. We have pouring reports of residents and visitors that the Loch Ness has been finally seen in the deep water of the loch. Jack tell me when did you spot it? I was just drinking coffee at the cafe when I saw this huge dark shadow in the water with a floating head peeking out and the curvy body also half visible. It was I guess trying to nibble on leaves or grass. The people on the boat was also scared to death. Did he do anything to the people around? No no it didn't it just came out and then just vanishe, you know the waters are dark not very transparent. We are trying to connect to the local authority and researchers at Inverness to find out more. Over to you
